Regarding the Discover card account ending in: Cms-Last4D-Of-Acct

Dear Sys-Name,

We have been advised that your Discover card account information may have been compromised. This incident did not involve any Discover card systems, and there is no evidence that an unauthorized individual is using this account number. We are confident that it is not necessary to provide you with a new account number at this time, and you may continue to use your existing card.

Discover is committed to the security of your account, and we are proactively monitoring it for unusual activity. Remember, with our $0 Fraud Liability Guarantee, you're never responsible for unauthorized use of your card online, offline, anytime or anywhere. For additional peace of mind, you may wish to review transactions on your statements and monitor your account online at Discover.com. If you have questions about any transactions, please feel free to contact us.

If you still have concerns, you may obtain a copy of your credit report from the major credit reporting agencies (Equifax, Experian, Innovis and TransUnion). You are entitled to a free copy of your credit report from each of these agencies every 12 months and can order the reports by calling 1-877-322-8228 or contacting the agency directly. The credit reporting agencies can assist you if you find any inaccurate information and provide detail about fraud alerts and security freezes.
